when questioned last hight in regard to his crime, Breton said, among other things: "I am an anarchist. The sooner the bourgeoisie burst up the better."

After the explosion the police arrested a man who was found trying to conceal himself about the street lazare railroad station, and who refused to give his name. He is believed to be an anarchist, and may possibly turn out to be an accomplice of Breton. The latter was once a waiter in the cafe into which he threw the bomb, but he had been discharged.

At a cabinet council held today last night's bomb outrage was discussed, and attention was also drawn to the manifestations during the last few days at Valllant's grave. Anarchists, socialists and others have been marching to the cemetery where the anarchist's remains are interred, and have been placing flowers and wreaths upon the grave.

The cabinet finally decided to forbid all such manifestations as the carrying of seditious emblems to any cemetery.

Proposed Legislation to Secure

More Business-Like System of Certain changes in the laws governing the the sundry civil appropriation bill for the next fiscal year, have caused much comment among the veterans. The board which has been in charge of FOR RENT not usually taken an active part in the oversight of the homes, so that the management has been practically in the hands LADIES' of the veterans.

There are nearly 30,000 old soldiers in the seven branches of the homes, the greatest number being in the central establishment at Dayton, Ohio, Large sums of money are handled by the officers, the appropriation for the next year being $2,300,875. Changes Recommended.

In the past the board of managers has held exclusive control of affairs, but it is now recommended by the appropriations mitted by him to Congress; that an inspection of the records, disbursements, discipline and management be made yearly by the inspector general's department, which is to report to Congress; that the disbursis to report to Congress; that the disbursing officers give bonds, approved by the Secretary of War; that their accounts be rendered mouthly to the War Department for transmission to the treasury, and that all laws requiring the board of managers to make quarterly visits to the home and audit the accounts be repealed.

Representative Sayers, the chairman of the appropriations committee, says that these changes were not intended to relieve the board of its power. the board of its power.

Account to the Treasury. "The intention was to make the board account to the Treasury Department for its financial transactions as all other government officers have to do. They are to be held accountable to the proper department for the use of public moneys. The changes were unanimously approved by the members of the appropriations committee, without regard to party, and have no object but a more business-like system of management."

Representative Cannon of Illinois, a promi-Representative Cannon of Hillnois, a promi-nent republican member, also said: "There was no intention to cripple the manage-ment of the homes, only to secure more in-telligent administration and an oversight of Real Estate at Auction.

East and West Railway. Mr. William Hutchinson, writing to the ommissioners upon the subject of street railways, says: "I notice by The Star this evening your recommendations as to some street railroads in the city, but have seen nothing yet this season relative to the east and west road for this northern section of the city to connect with Georgetown. There is no road so much needed at this time. We have our north and south connections. have our north and south connections. There is a general call for such a road, but I suppose no formal petition has been circulated. This petition of the Belt line in my vicinity could well be utilized in the general plan. The needed connection is first to the Mctropolitan line at Dupont Circle on P street and Connecticut avenue. The carriageways on V and W streets are narrow, hence but one track on a street narrow, hence but one track on a street would seem best, and P and Q streets would be the best route west of Iowa Circle. How to best cover this franchise by joining other corporations I would not suggest. My chief purpose is to have this line considered while you have before you the subject of extending our street railroads."

4th Street Grading Stopped. In the appropriation act for the fiscal year 1892 there was an appropriation of $5,000 for grading 4th street extended. Mr. Andrew Gleeson was the successful bidder. After working for some time on his contract he was notified that it would be necessary to stop the work, as a sewer was being constructed in that street. As it was ing constructed in that street. As it was not known how long it would be before the sewer would be completed, a final measurement was given him, and he was paid for the work already done. In the meantime the sewer was completed, but the fiscal year under which the appropriation was made had closed, and the question arose whether Mr. Gleeson could continue his contract and receive pay. The auditor for the District, to whom the matter was referred, states to whom the matter was referred, states that an extension of this contract would be in the nature of a new obligation chargeable to the present year, for which no appropriation exists, and Mr. Gleeson was accordingly notified today that no further work can be done under his contract for grading this street. grading this street.

Among other quaint remarks he told the President, to whom he addressed his application, that if he were not chosen as marshal of the state he could at least "paddle his own canoe." There were two very prominent candidates for the position, and the backing of each was so strong that there was no choosing between them. that there was no choosing between them. They showed no signs of a compromise, and the President, it is said, cut the knot by choosing a third man, who chanced to be Mr. Bede.
